STAFF NEWS:

Comics will return in next issue.

Whoever has issue 4, GIVE IT BACK!!!

We do not wish to offend or disgruntle anyone ~~by~~ by printing these articles, but - by some coincidence - if we do,

TOUGH LOGGIE!!

-IMPORTANT-

President of the Utica Times, Mart Hughson, has expressed that he would allow the 2 newspapers to join together to form 1. Needless to say, (but we'll say it anyway) the L.P.G. would have to give up some traditions and print space - but it would end our ruthless competition between each other, and possibly return Jacob Wicke to the staff. Please contact the editor ~~the~~ with your views so that he may be informed of the readers' opinions. Thank You!

Barney Disemboweled at Middle School Assembly

CAMBRIDGE, WI - It all began as an educational presentation to encourage sharing and exercising. Then things went terribly wrong. Who is to blame? We'll let you decide (It was those blasted minorities again. We say so).

On a cold winter's day in mid-January, 1995, the students of Nikolay Middle School had all gathered into the gymnasium to see yet another public television children's star make a positive learning presentation. After Mr. Rogers came in last week to talk about the difference between real and make-believe, the restless hoodlums of the school had had more than enough of feeding fish and miniature trolleys that transported you to the neighborhood of make-believe. Barney's assembly, however, put them over the edge, and by the time he said that he loved them for the umpteenth time, the middle schoolers stormed off the bleachers and pounded him into a purple mass of bloody pulp.

School executives later commented, "This is all very surprising to us. We realize that some middle school students have become mildly uninterested in characters such as Barney, but they didn't have to ruin it for the many other students who still love Barney almost as much as he loved them. We feel that Barney is a necessary stage in the development of children- regardless of age- and if juveniles as young as 11-16 cannot respect that, I'd hate to imagine what this world is coming to." Next week, the school administrators have scheduled in a full-day session of Size Small Island for them.

Jon ~~M~~yers Missing in Snowbank

CAMBRIDGE, WI - With the record snowfall of over 12 inches on Jan. 19th, little damage and fewer accidents than expected have been reported, however, Jon ~~M~~yers somehow got outside, despite the storm warnings for heavy accumulation, and vanished into oblivion. Many suspect that he may have been plowed in, or perhaps the snow became too deep for him to move in, and it was only a matter of time before the 1ft. of snow completely submerged him. Until he turns up, the NBA will never be the same...

NOTICE :

You have been selected to participate in the 1995 Uranium pie eating contest. The competition consists of 3 events. 1: each contestant will eat 7 Uranium filled pies. The final person to lose their life shall be declared the victor, and after they have been awarded a 4-piece set of golden coffins, a few moments later, dead by intoxication. 2: Your assistant will then decapitate their arms and legs and race across the U.S. with your corpse in their mouth. All contestants will be chased throughout the competition by certified members of the Axe Murderer Society of America, each wielding an innovative new murder weapon sharpened to the point where they will gouge their own hands just by holding it. The last living assistant shall be allowed ~~3~~ 3 and 1/2 more seconds before being entirely mutated by their designated axe murderer. 3: Lastly, all spectators shall be assigned a dead contestant or assistant to be the specimens of a highly competitive game of ALIVE!. All participants receive a crummy certificate of excellence with an authentic-signed in blood- signature of Jeffry Dahmmer.

Cambridge Airport to be Constructed by Jan. 30th

CAMBRIDGE, WI - Talks of adding an international airport to Cambridge for transporting all the tourists to and from Cambridge have for many years been scoffed at by village board members- but soon this will change before you can even say lkjgdlnbc kbvefgndbnljngnfgd... etc. However, as of yet, only one airline has notified that they wish to serve the airport. Laurel Airlines- headed and run by Laurel Cutcher- has made it quite clear that they will be the leading airline there. While it owns no planes or has any pilots, Laurel will fly all commuters on her back to their destination. Her wings may become tired, but she says that she will do whatever it takes to better serve her customers. Reservations for flights have already been made by John Goodman, Reggie White, and the Institution for the Chronically Obese. To contribute to the high costs of construction, peanuts will now be sold at the slightly higher price of $200,000,000 per bag. It will handle incoming and outgoing flights 24 hours a day or .2318 seconds (whichever comes first).

Elvis Has Left the Building- Or Has He?

CAMBRIDGE, WI - Several Elvis sightings have been reported recently at Nikolay Middle School, and law officials are investigating the injuries of several students after slipping on newly found concentrations of hair oil on the floor. These occurrences have led Elvis fans worldwide to believe that Cambridge is a sighting hot-spot- which could bring many unwanted visitors along with a sellout of all the "Find Elvis" magic batons from the Wagonfactory. Locals are denying all sightings whatsoever, and are discouraging any Elvis-watchers from setting up observations in the area. School principal, Mr. Lumb commented, "I suspect that this is all just a big misinterpretation of a passerby in the hallway. It was most likely one of our staff- perhaps Mr. Ehrike- yes, just add a few hundred pounds, completely dye his hair, cut off his feet, along with several weeks of lip curling classes, and he could definitely be mistaken for Elvis. As for the oil, I cannot begin to guess."

Mr. Leadholm was available for final clarification, "We are certain of one thing: Elvis has left the building. There's just nothing more to say."

Short

The deranged mutant gorilla stormed through the jungle knocking down trees on either side, in search of his unfortunate victim. With a sudden halt, he sniffed the air around him. Yes, he'd picked up the scent. The primate smiled, slyly, and slowly crept up to a tall shrubbery. It took a quick glance behind the bush- and saw him. His target could only guess as to what enflamed horror the beast would unleash upon him. They exchanged glances for a moment, and just before he could reach for the tranquilizer, the gorilla struck and killed the foolish scientist who had given him the fake banana.

Lunch Time Fun-Fact: A dung beetle will lay her eggs directly in the dung for the larvae to roll into balls with and feed on.

Weather Bulletin

The snow in Australia which has gradually diminished over the last several centuries has been contaminated with turpentine and should be avoided at all costs until the cow jumps over the moon. Residents of Wyoming have experienced a destructive mud flow, and are scooping it up with dishes and spoons. The cat and the fiddle are reportedly missing in the Australian snowdrifts.
