Last-Minute Notes:

Not too much to note this time. Just that we now have classified ad/message space available at 25¢, unlimited size, for two issues. Both of the editor's brothers made small contributions to this issue and may or may not return for the next issue. I did not originally mean for this to be only one page less than the Super Ultra Behemoth issue #2, but perhaps it was destined to be that way. I guarantee, though, that all issues will not be over 15 pages. That's about it. Oh yeah, sorry about the picture, Jon + Brad, but I didn't have any pictures of you to copy. Just remember that I don't look much better.

Chris Kreul Wins 2nd Nobel Prize in Three Years

CAMBRIDGE, WI - Just another normal day for acclaimed philosopher, Chris Kreul. He was just the recipient of his second Nobel Prize. With reporters swarmed all around him at his Cambridge home, his quick wit allowed him to escape, out-smarting each one to get inside. "What a concept!" he said numerous times. No, for most of us, this is not a normal day-- but most of us aren't geniuses with charm and charisma to boot! His ground-breaking new theory: "School Sucks!" has sent scientists worldwide into a tizzy.

"Genius, sheer genius. I've never heard anything like it. All of his material radiates his astounding intellect," one of the judges commented. This and the entire panel voted to award him his second Nobel Prize in three years-- an unprecedented event.

When asked what the future held for him, Kreul told us, "Something cool, something very cool." One with normal mental capacity can only guess as to what he means. With such past success, namely the "Awesome Thing" theory (which won him the honor in eighth grade), predictions run wild as to what ingenious thing he will say next.

A professor at Harvard, whose scholarship offer was turned down without a thought, said about his theory, "Something so simple-- yet, at the same time, brutally honest and pure could have a profound effect on the scientific world. It's a shame we could not convince him to enlighten our ignorant university."

At first, many scoffed at Chris' hypothesis, but with much publicity in his favorite philosophical magazine, Thrasher, "School Sucks!" was accepted by nearly all of his peers as scientific law. Immediately, his response gave away his inner feeling of accomplishment, "That's totally, awesomely cool!" He then skateboarded into a cement wall and fell, unconsciously, to the ground. When he regained his composure, he gave reporters a glimpse of his next theory when he said, "Man, I gotta pull my head out!"

Regretfully having given away his inner thoughts, Kreul went through a period of great remorse, during which he lived in solitude, repeating his tale of woe time and again, "Oh no, dude!" One can only hope that he will not fall into the condition which has plagued many geniuses of his high caliber, in which his great knowledge would reveal to him how naive the average person is, causing him to become neurotic and forever impeding his mind from spewing anymore genius from within.

It may be best if we allow him to settle this himself, without any interference from mere mortals as ourselves. After all, if he found out "E= the letter after F" on his own, rest assured he will get by unscathed.

Video Game Review

Today I'm going to review another game for the Nintendo 64, which I rented over the weekend a couple of weeks ago after the last issue, this game was PilotWings 64!

I thought this game is the 2nd best game so far that I played on my Nintendo 64. The graphics are so cool, the gyrocopter is the easiest to fly it is just like your conventional flight sims.

The handglider is the second easiest to fly, and finally the hardest to fly is the rocket belt. This game is so awesome, almost like real life, you start with your beginners pilots license, and do different activities until you get your pilots license!

And when this happens you can do special events like sky diving, canon shooting (where you get shoot out of a canon), and jungle hopping (where you have spring shoes and you jump all over the place)! If you get a silver or better for each of the activities for each way you can fly you will get the Birdman (which you can pick any character you want and you fly through a level you earn to go to)!

The levels are the Little States, the Snow Mountain area, the Crescent mountain area, and the Holiday Island!

Finally the last thing I tell you about this game is the characters names are named after birds and they are as follows: Kite, Owl, Robin, Hawk, Goose, and Lark!

I give this game a 14.5 out of 15

Aries: You begin a civil war in India by stealing their entire supply of baba gaunuj (a tasty dip made from eggplant).

Taurus: Tiring of your daily trials and tribulations, you will seek Ed McMahon to get the millions of dollars he promised to you to avoid the inconvenience of him disturbing you at your house.

Gemini: First resulting in joyous surprise, you will die of a heart-attack when you find out that an enemy from the Nintendo game "MegaMan 3" is named after your constellation.

Cancer: Your plastic surgeon's "minor" error will open up a new career path as a circus freak.

Leo: All of the dying of fall and winter depresses you. Devote your life to resurrecting the deceased.

Virgo: Time runs short and my patience wears thin. Take a police car for a spin. If he gets angry, tell 'im you heard it from me. He'll change your sentence from a month to twenty three. Enjoy your time in the Big-House.

Libra: Take pride in the F's you earn. After all, even Albert Einstein flunked math. Maybe someday you'll make an atom bomb, too.

Scorpio: Today you will meet a horrendous death when you collide with a ...

Sagittarius: Denounce modern communication! Let all your thoughts be known through hand motions and gibberish.

Aquarius: You feel that you are losing touch with your past. Nail your history book to your hand. The blood symbolizes memories.

OPINION

The End is Near

There's no point in denying it any longer. Very soon, we shall all meet our fiery deaths and meet with eternal suffering. Our eyes will be gouged out with a letter opener and what is left of our brains after the experiments will be blended into a high protein beverage to be sold at health stores around the country.

You cannot escape-- nor can I. Once we are enslaved by the evil shrew demons, all will be lost. They are coming for you now... Hear them knock at your door. Do not resist their call. Join them. Become them. Fall into the infernal pit that is our destiny. Live contently no longer... spies are all around to see.

This was the essay that the editor did not submit to the Optimist Club with the theme "Following a Dream Towards Freedom".

CORPUSTLE'S COOKING CORNER

Here's a little number that will put a little zippity zop zi in your Thanksgiving dinner. I whipped it up quite by accident when my turkey fell into a pile of elephant droppings sitting next to my stove. Anyway, I call it: Turkey A La Jester.

Turkey A La Jester:

Mix in toilet bowl:
1 cup fly innards
3 tbl. cough syrup
1 Jennie-Q Turkey
4 gal. snake venom
1/4 tsp. antidote
(to retard death symptoms)

Place in oven at highest setting, and wait for it to explode and kill you. When done, serve with parsley. Enjoy!

Well, now doesn't that sound scrumptious?! I know, I know. Genius, right? I'm just doing my job. No, no-- there's not a fan club. But hey! If you act now, you can order your very own copy of my new cookbook: Recipes to Tickle Your Fancy! It's full of hard to prepare "meals" that might painfully end your life-- but are sure to tickle your fancy! Buy one today!

Here at C.V.G.C. we are sorry to say "due to our low inventory we do not have Atari 2600 game #2603, but we do have #2604(Space War) which we will substitute for it.

As always we do take suggestions from you to improve our format. Give comments to Julian.

SPACE WAR for The Atari 2600

Type: Joystick

This is not the best game I've seen in a long time. The control is bad, The graphics are ok, but the game is challenging. In this game there are practice maneuvers that you can learn. Once you have conquered all the techniques like Hyperspace, Warp Drive and avoiding the gravity pull of the Space Sun - you are ready to conquer the universe.

Rating: 5

Greetings, all you folks on the cutting edge of video game technology. There's been a lot of talk (ever heard of this thing called Nintendo 64?) about a new system that will revolutionize the electronics industry as we know it. Frankly, I think it doesn't come close to measuring up with its new competitor- yet I've heard almost nothing about it from the press. I guess you just can't trust the media these days. You can trust me, though-- and I'll tell you! Pong is definitely the best new game you can't buy! Sure, the N-64 has 3D environments, where you can go anyplace you want to, but it sorely lacks the white dot flying across the screen that only a genuine game of Pong can provide. Don't waste your money on an N-64 when you could raid the neighborhood trash cans and find Pong for free!!!!

And now a guiding light for the troubled lives of today's youth:
Ask Mr. Smily Face

Dear Mr. Smily Face, I've been having some troubles. Every night when I go to bed, I have these terrible dreams about being chased by portly hippopotamus. It wrestles me down to the ground and tries to give me a big smooch. In the dream, I begin choking it, and, when I wake up, I am strangling my wife. What's wrong with me? Do I not love my wife? Is she the hippo in my dreams- or do I just hate my wife? Please help me. Sincerely, Dreaming in Dallas.

Dear Dreaming, you are a very sick man. I can suggest a good psychiatrist, namely Mr. Smily Face (me). I'll only charge you $500 for this advice. Go to the zoo. Let your true feelings be known. You'd be surprised what a good listener a hippo can be. I speak from experience. One rainy day, a magic hippopotamus stormed through my window and told me to use my gift to help people via this column. It sure didn't steer me wrong! Sincerely, Mr. Smily Face :-)

Mr. Smily Face urges you to remember that we all are special in our own special ways, and we all are special each and every day.

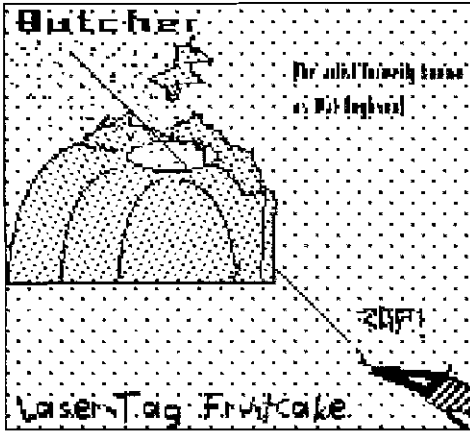

There's a little Mr. Smily Face in all of us. If you need to wake him up, write a letter to him explaining your concern, and give it to the editor. We assure you that only Mr. Smily Face will read it.

Mr. Smily Face is not a licensed psychologist.

 You need my help!

"Butcher" to Release New Album: Laser-Tag Fruitcake

Our exclusive interview with lead singer, Mat Hughson, greatest butcherer of songs this side of the Mississippi.

CM STUDIOS, CAMBRIDGE, WI - Continuing to be on the cutting edge of alternative rock music, the artist formerly known as Mat Hughson (who changed the name to Butcher to better fit his style) is to release another album. The condensed (down to 3 hrs., 37 min., 52 sec.) version of the now hit single "I'm Gonna Go to Ultra Zone" is not only the deeply saddening story of his life, but also a radio mainstay. As a result of the frequent air-time, the song has made LTF one of the most highly anticipated CD's of this year, passing up Pearl Jam's "No Code" and leaving Bush's "Razorblade Suitcase" (a title suspiciously similar to this one) far behind. With other songs including Mat butchering popular songs such as "Where It's At" and "Down", it's really no surprise.

Mat tells us in his interview of the hardships of being a lead singer in his own band and being a soccer player. "I was really stressed for time. I had to rehearse some of the songs during soccer practice, which resulted in many intentional kickings. In fact, even before practice, I had to rehearse my Ultra Zone song all day during school. I can't say soccer treated me well. Sure, I was an all-conference player, but I think I'll decline the offer to play for Brazil to concentrate on Laser-Tag-er um- my singing career." While none of the songs on the CD (with the exception, of course, of "Ultra Zone") were actually written by himself, there is no doubt that he brings an element that the original versions lacked- namely losing the things that make you want to sing along with, dance, or listen to them.

He has every intention to sue Bush for imitating his album title- and with good reason- as a no-name band like that must have some uerve to do such a thing. They should consider themselves lucky that he butchers their song "Machine Head" on his new CD.

Sorry about the small type. My computer didn't have enough ~~to~~ memory to allow me to fit all the necessary information in while making the print large enough to read. If you want, you can buy me a new computer. Until such time, TOULH LOOGIE (to put it bluntly) !

Review

Today I will review " The Great Radish Caper " from the Fraggle Rock Collection. It is about a fraggle named Mokey that finds a radish that she plans to eat, but there's one problem... it's in a gorg's garden! The gorg has no friends except for the radish. When he finds it missing he becomes depressed. Mokey feels sorry for the gorg but is afraid that if the gorg finds out that she took the radish he would eat her. Mokey decides to go back to the garden and return the radish. The gorg finds her in the garden and she gets caught. She makes a deal with the gorg if she finds him a friend he won't eat her. They looked almost everywhere, but they don't find any friends for the gorg. So Mokey decides to be the gorg's friend.

I think this is an excellent movie. I give it a 9.

- 1= Stupid
- 2= Put me to sleep
- 3= Too boring
- 4= Boring
- 5= Not very exciting
- 6= Was interesting
- 7= Good
- 8= I learned from it
- 9= Excellent
- 10= Perfect in everyway

Physical Education To Be Offered Through JEDI

CAMBRIDGE, WI - With classes such as French, German, and FCE already being offered through Jefferson County's distance learning program, it was really only a matter of time before a class was offered for schools which lack the necessary facilities for students to participate in indoor sports such as basketball, volleyball, and, of course, everyone's favorite: shuffleboard. Cambridge High School is demonstrating that the future is now. A physical education class is soon to be offered through the JEDI Program. It will be taught in the high school gym during the winter sports season. Cameras and televisions have already been set up, and classes begin Monday, November 25th.

While preliminary runs of the basketball unit have been less than successful (four TV sets have been broken by students from Jefferson trying to pass the ball to their teammates in Cambridge via the television screen), the shuffleboard unit looks to run much more smoothly. A unit on indoor track was canceled, as students not actually in the gym received concussions from running into the walls of their room.

CAMBRIDGE HIGH SCHOOL WRESTLING TEAM BEATS WWF

CAMBRIDGE, WI - Not since the wrestling match between Mr. Brockmann and Mr. Boekhop (see Lake Poopó Gazette) has there been such anticipation of a wrestling meet. Challenged at the beginning of the season, the wrestlers of WWF have fallen victim to the underdog team from Cambridge. Things looked bleak from the beginning, as the WWF team had to forfeit every match-up from the 103 lb. weight class up until the heavyweight match, in which Yokozuna sat on and suffocated the Cambridge wrestler. That move was declared illegal by the referee, and the Sumo was disqualified. The dead, flattened body of the Cambridge wrestler was held up in triumph, as the capacity crowd of 150 cheered wildly (except for the boy's parents, whose cries were muffled by the tauntingly scary swears of revenge by the WWF wrestlers who said that they were much bigger and "badde" than any other wrestlers in the world). Lex Luger commented, "I am the all-American wrestler! Mark my word, Cambridge, Lex Luger does not take a loss sitting down! I'll be back for my revenge! And when I do, you'll be sorry you ever met Lex Luger! There'll be no doubt who's the best in the world! Me!! Lex Luger! I am very tough!" These rantings continued for approximately fifteen minutes after the meet was over, though all those watching from pay-per-view had long since turned their sets off.
