LAST MINUTE NOTES: At long last, issue 10 is complete! Nick Runge found the cover picture and the pictures below the classifieds. The Editor did not review a movie this issue. Instead of the IMC, this issue picks on Ben. At the lunch table, Brad made an observation that the younger Conrad bears an uncanny resemblance to a big baked potato. Thus a monster was created.

This issue would have been even bigger, had the editor written more articles when he had the chance. However, ~~the~~ the hopefully long awaited issue ~~they~~ could not be delayed any longer. I'm sure I could write more, but I won't.

* We hope this will not be the last issue of the year.

Comet Baby-Bopp, as seen April 12th in the east sky. Professionally rendered by the editor on his rather pathetic computer and printer.

Comet Baby-Bopp Wows Scientists, Preschoolers

Comet Linked With Mass Bed Wetting of Pre-school Cult:

Kindergarten's Gate

OUTER SPACE, UNIVERSE - Star gazers worldwide have had their eyes to the stars for the past months to view the most stunning celestial spectacle since the passing of Barney's Comet in 1986. Comet Baby-Bopp (named for its discoverers, Baby and Bopp, and its uncanny resemblance to the children's character, Baby Bop of the somehow popular show: Barney and Friends) could be, and was, seen by millions of people across the nation and the world. It is easily distinguished from other comets and such by its distinct green tail. It also looks like a giant, green plush dinosaur flying through the sky. Some scientists believe that comet Baby-Bopp is chasing Barney's Comet, in hopes that the two will meet to play with blocks, sing songs with kids, and have fun together. These scientists, however, are five years old.

Unfortunately, many people (especially those with cult membership) see the comet as more than just an awe-striking spectacle-- rather as an omen of impending doom or the way to reach the promised land of Imagination City. Some of these such people were the now famous members of the preschool cult, Kindergarten's Gate. Recently, 39 four to six year-olds joined together in a mass bed-wetting to welcome Baby-Bopp, in hopes that she would carry them safely to the sanctuary of kindergarten. All cult members had reportedly cast off their prized blankies before the bed-wetting, yet another bizarre ritual of the cult. One member commented that he felt very free, having relieved himself of the burden of a blanky, however most members of preschool society believe this to have been an extremely sick and perverted act.

Once the comet has left viewing range, Baby Bop may still be seen on many episodes of "Barney and Friends".

Most recent (spring sport?) pep rally (as of 4-20-97)- Rating: 4

As you will eventually come to realize, I do not give high ratings to pep rallies. This is because the rallies do little to "pep up" the many "outcasts" who sit at the top of the bleachers doing nothing while the others, quite foolishly, shout their lungs out at the cheerleaders. I find myself somewhere in between.

Anyway, the teams were introduced rather abruptly, the applause's lacked sincerity, and we really didn't have much to shout for. The saving grace was that my class somehow won the shouting contest and the coveted spirit stick. All in all, however, I would rather have been in study hall.

And now a guiding light for the troubled lives of America's youth
Ask Mr. Smily Face :-)

Dear Mr. Smily Face: I am a hobo in the gutter. I wallow in my own excrements and self-pity. Passerbies have stopped throwing spare change and now instead launch insults and mocking laughs in my unfortunate direction. The homeless shelter kicked me out a week ago because of my revolting stench. My clothes are tattered and reeking of... (goes on for 13 more pages)

Sincerely, Bummed in Baltimore

Dear Bummed: What a clever pun! Why, with wits like yours, you could surely get a prestigious job at McDonald's or any other respectable restaurant chain across the nation. With your talent and go-getter attitude, you could even be president of the United Burger-flippers. So quit peeing in the gutter, and start making burgers on it! The grate would make a fine grill, you know! Glad I could help!

Sincerely, Mr. Smily Face :-)

News Shorts

Since this is a very big issue, there are two whole pages of news shorts in this issue!

FBLA, FFA, FHA Join Forces to Create Maid Business Run by Cow
UNITED STATES, AMERICA - The three most prominent school groups to prepare today's youth for the future of different careers have collaborated their efforts to create the single most astounding achievement of this century. Interweaving FBLA's prowess in business leadership, FFA's agricultural know-how, and FHA's domineering rule over family and consumer education, the clubs have created a synthetic freak of nature. Needless to say, members of each group are baffled at why these groups even bothered to try to work together.

No-Fire Strikes Again. CHS Terrorized by No-Smoke

By: RJ

CAMBRIDGE, WI - Monday, horror struck Cambridge High School, when the no-fire broke out. "It was horrible! The fire alarm went off, and the school didn't burn down!" said disgruntled freshman, Ryan Murray. Yes, it was tragic. CHS students were forced to live with the fact that the school hadn't been terribly scorched by a fire that had set off the fire alarm. Instead, they had to live with the fact that the only casualty was a plate of bacon, burning in the home economics room. Freshman student council is pushing for a school-wide ban on bacon (turkey and pork alike) to ensure that student's hopes are not again built up.

Some continue to question the need of the bulky no-gas masks which the students are forced to wear, accompanying the no-heatproof suits. I suppose it's just a matter of no-circumstance.

Giant Menacing Gorilla Terrorizes Old 190? Building of Elementary School. "Get the heck off!" Orders Hottman.

HOW STORY

CAMBRIDGE, WI - A very confused King Kong impersonator escaped the non-existent Cambridge zoo yesterday, ascending to the top of the tallest building in town, the Old Building at the elementary school. A very angry Hottman ordered the giant ape down, but became a hearty meal for the primate, which eventually broke off the steeple and fell down the great height of 25 feet. The beast suffered a crippling broken arm, but was immediately beaten to death by a horde of vengeful, hyper elementary students in need of a game to play during recess.

This incident has rendered the restoration of the Old Building a lost cause. As a result, all funds collected for restoration will be given to a lucky high school student at CHS. A drawing was held at the community center, and the student was

CHS Purchases New Tornado Drill. Rosen: "The Old One Couldn't Even Drill a Hole through Wood."

CAMBRIDGE, WI - After much campaigning by teachers, the school board reluctantly approved funding towards the purchase of a new tornado drill. Staff noted that all area schools' tornado drills made ours look like a plastic piece of junk out of a "Cool Tools" toy box.

The new drill will be used to drill a hole in a wooden sign which reads: "Please stay away from me. I am dangerous.". This sign will then be screwed (with the drill) into nearby tornadoes to ward off any inquisitive passerbies and people making a "Twister" sequel. School staff is uncertain when sufficient funds can be allocated to replace the out-dated fire drill.

Jon Myers Rocks!

CAMBRIDGE, WI - Local student Jon Myers "totally rocks!" when giving his speeches in English class, according to fellow student, Brad Danto. Brad also notes that his face and ears turn a bright red color during and after his speech. Myers has additional plans to rock at the Bush concert in Madison, however, this rocking will be geared more toward the music.

Kreul Opts Not to Give Speech on Quantum Physics-- Instead Chooses Skateboards

CAMBRIDGE, WI - Renowned philosopher and scientist, Chris Kreul has surprised fellow scholars once again by announcing a change in subject for an informative speech from the theories of quantum physics to the world of skateboards and skateboarding. This comes as a shock to the scientific world, but most on-lookers do so enthusiastically and with anticipation of just what new insightful information will be presented within his speech.

"It's all a part of his great genius. You never know just what to expect!" exclaimed Harvard University science professor, Mr. Person, just before imitating Kreul's patented skateboard moves on his own personally autographed ramp.

Mysterious New Lab Technique Discovered: Boiling

CAMBRIDGE, WI - In a series of unprecedented events, CHS students were witness to an astounding new lab technique known as boiling. Baffled, students continued to do the lab as instructed, downplaying the importance of their discovery. More on this later.

Taco Juans Movie Review

About a couple of weeks ago I seen a new really funny movie at the Movie Theater. That movie that I had seen on that day was the hot new hit starring Jim Carrey. If you have not heard of this awesome movie I tell its name, which is Liar Liar.

This movie was about a father who is a lawyer who lied about everything. So his kid wished for his birthday that his father would not lie for just one day. And the curse worked on the next day Jim couldn't lie about even any little thing, like he tried to lie that his blue pen was red or something like that.

If you want to now anything more about this movie, then get off the couch you couch baked potato (Like Ben) and go see this movie for yourself.

I Taco Juan give the movie today a 10 out of 10.

Monday: SPRING SPECIAL- Deep-Fried squirrel tails, locust cabobs, pollen, leaf buds, rotting wood from school ceiling beams, rainwater.

Tuesday: Substifufe feachers, whipped cream, Hepatitis berries, Elmer's Glue, lake water.

Wednesday: Granny Corpustle's Casserole, red ink.

Thursday: Dead students from Wednesday's meal, potatoes, glass cakes, assorted vermin, wall scrapings, unused trays, pool water.

Friday: Leftovers.

Please Xerox this survey, fill it out, and return it to RJ.

Survey (Please photocopy in the library, say it's for a teacher, then they let you copy anything on that thing. Hey, I did it once)

Question #1: Do you think the earth is round? (circle one)

Yes, you idiot

No, pull your head out

Question #2: What will happen to the O-zone layer? (circle one)

Uh, yes, I think

Beats the snot outta me

It'll just mix in with the N-zone layer

A giant vacuum will suck it out of our atmosphere

Question #5: Are humans truly native to Earth? (circle one)

Bleeper blop neet

I could tell you, but I'd have to kill you

Yes

Question #6: What is the average wing beat capacity of an unladen swallow? (circle one)

About 30, um, 30 mph, yeah

African? or European?

Question #4: Will the earth ever be violently smashed to bits by some unforeseen death laser thingy from the moon that will move throughout the solar system destroying each and every planet until it goes to Yavin when these little star ships come out of the fourth moon and go into a little trench and shoot these glowing Fox Hockey Puck thingies into a little hole about 2 meters in diameter and then just before it fires at the fourth moon of Yavin the thing blows up and this big sonic wave comes out because the special effects guys at THX added it in and Biggs was really just Luke with a mustache and the people who made that scene were probably earning big money and when it was released, they had a commercial where these stupid people cheered when the Death Star blew up, cuz I'm SURE they have the movies at home and they were probably just payed by those Lucasarts people that just want it to look good so people would go see the movie? (circle one)

Yes

Um, no

Another Daybreak...
Another Defacing

Who are the sick vandals who destroy the Daybreak section every morning during study hall and then write "Visually Enhanced by Neil"? These people were probably mentally abused by people that "haven't fully evolved" due to the extra hair on Luanne. This abuse also must have occurred on Halloween because Dr. Morgan, M.D. is drawn up as a vampire and the others with fangs, horns, and goat-ees. The horoscopes are all put into leighman's terms so these must be very literal people taking everything very seriously.

Many readers are disturbed when going to read the Ann Landers help column but find the name changed to "Ned Flanders" and satanic symbols drawn all over the foreheads of the people in the feature stories. Personally, I have tried to deter this kind of activity, but all of my attempts have failed. Coming to grips with this morbid realization is very difficult, but that's not the point! The point is that this has to stop before the vandals spread to the idea of defacing Garfield. The only way that we can correct this problem is by catching these "artists" in the act with expensive, covert surveillance and then sending them to years of expensive therapy. Either that or let them back into the library.

Classic Video Game Column

As always give comments and questions to the editor.

DEFENDER for the Atari 2600.

In DEFENDER aliens are attacking the planet. Not only have they taken many threatening forms - alien landers, exploding pods, and bombers - they're also trying to take your friends and use them against you. Launch your anti-alien attack rocket. Watch the rocket's scanner screen for early warning data. Then fire your laser cannons! Only you can prevent the aliens from kidnapping your fellow humanoids and transforming them into treacherous mutants.

DEFENDER is a good game, but not great. Through the whole game all you do is shoot the same kind of space ships over and over, after awhile it gets boring. I don't really have any tips for you on this game. Sorry.

Classic Video Game Column 2

Yes this issue we have a second column!

ATLANTIS for the Atari 2600.

The submerged city of Atlantis battles an unrelenting enemy assault and struggles to survive. Waves of flying foes batter the city's defenses. You command the Atlantean forces. Your three missile installations guard the skies, thick with alien aircraft. Make every shot count. Track and destroy them, or knock out their flagship and pulverize the fleet. Atlantis needs your help know.

In ATLANTIS you have three missile installations where you can fire from. The one on the left aims to the right and the one on the right aims to the left. Last there is one in the center that aims up the middle. They one shoot to one spot so you have to time the ships as they fly over the firing spot to hit them. Low flying ships shoot lasers at your missile installations, one hit and they are gone. The missile installation will come back when you gain a certain number of points by shooting down a certain number of alien aircrafts.

Irish Potato Famine Strikes Again UN Sends Ben In To Help

Dublin, Ireland - It was horrible Wednesday, as for the second time in history, Ireland became void of any potatoes, whatsoever. All was not lost however, for United Nations representative, Jake Sullivan, had seen what he thought was a huge potato when he was visiting friends in Cambridge, Wisconsin. What he saw, was in fact, a local student, Ben Conrad. UN Forces arrived at Ben's house, Saturday to escort him to a plane waiting for him at O'Hare airport. The gigantic potato came peacefully, screaming "I DON'T WANNA GO!!! HELP!!!" Crowds of Cambridge citizens gathered to watch Ben go. It was a touching scene. In an exclusive interview, a local authority commented, "I'm glad he's gone. That kid was a trouble maker."

Across the sea, hordes of angry Irishmen were chanting for potatoes.

Ben was briefed in Washington D.C. and was ready for his mission, Feed the Irish. His screaming had died down to a pout of, "don't take me to Ireland, I don't wanna go." His enthusiasm at it's peak, and his parachute in hand, Ben was thrown into a large jumbo-jet airliner.

In Ireland, billions of restless people yearned for potatoes.

It must have been a marvelous site for all the Irish, watching those bombay doors open and a huge potato falling to the ground, screaming some unintelligible garble, unto the crowd. We can now be happy for the Irish, and there will always be a piece of Ben, in each of them.

Ben Conrad Missing Authorities Have No Clue

Cambridge, WI - Yes it was tragic. Local student, Ben Conrad, has been missing since Saturday. Local authorities were completely dumbfounded by the news of the missing resident. "Well isn't that that kid they just carried off a little while ago?" commented one of the police officers, in an exclusive interview. Some thought Ben was taken by the UN. We think they are delusional.

Bad Move Sets Dennis Rodman Back Billions Local Student Makes Most Money Ever In One Hand Of Poker

Cambridge, WI - Last Saturday at the Sweethearts dance at Cambridge High School, celebrity basketball player Dennis Rodman was reported to have been seen in the crowd. Many students felt uncomfortable around the rowdy basketball player, many of them reminded of Rodman's recent suspension from the Chicago Bulls. Apparently Rodman had been looking for something to do, without his team, Rodman was left with no choice but to go to the Sweethearts Dance in Cambridge.

With Nobody to dance with, Rodman had scared away every girl in the room, Rodman decided to play poker with a group of kids sitting around a table. Unfortunately for Rodman, Patrick McRoberts was one of the students playing poker. Within a few hands, Rodman had the students betting their savings, and was cleaning them out one by one, but in just a few more hands, McRoberts had Rodman's wallet. "He didn't have a chance," said McRoberts, while counting the money, "He should have known better than throw his wallet on the table, that fool."

Without his wallet, Rodman was forced to hitchhike back to Chicago, fearing that attacking the student would get him put in jail, and having left his Driver's License in his wallet. "That was the worst hand of poker I ever played," said the ashamed Rodman. While McRoberts, on the other hand seemed to be having a great time. He quickly looked to some friends for a ride to Madison, and spent the majority of the money on State Street. Little is known of what McRoberts bought with his money, but we imagine he's letting a certain suspended basketball player know.

Video Game Review

I finally GOT WAVE RACE 64 for my NINTENDO 64. So in this VIDEO GAME REVIEW WAVE RACE 64 is the game I'm GOING TO REVIEW.

Wave Race 64 uses realistic 3-D graphics in an awesome way. The way the realistic looking waves bounce your realistic jet ski racer around like a bouncy ball. The sound is great, and the game play is totally cool. It takes a while to get used to the control just like a normal racer, but it gets simple after awhile.

This game is rated K-A by the ESRB, and is designed for a N64 Controller Pak. In this game you can race against another player in a two player race or race three computer racers for the win on up to 11 courses. You can race either Stunt mode or Time Trials by yourself or championship against the computer players. You can chose between 4 racers which are Ryota Hayami, Ayumi Stewart, Miles Jeter, and Dave Mariner(who is a super fat man).

I give this game a 15 out of 15, because of the sensational realism in racing on water. I Jon Myers recommend this game for your playing pleasure.

Dear All wize one,

Today it was brought to my attention that restroom pass let you go to the bathroom anywhere. They probably ment that you could only go to the bathroom in a bathroom. What would happen to me if I took a pee in the middle of the IMC? Would I be punished? Or would it be ok if I had a bathroom pass? Should I eat a mentos?

Sincerely,
Pleasantly Peeing

Dear PP,

I think this is a very interesting question and I think I'm going to try it also!

HOT NEW VIDEO GAME CORNER

By: Julian Lee

With the flood of new video games and systems- each sporting its own new technologically enhanced features- it can become difficult to make a decision to purchase one. Finding a game that stands out from the rest is no longer as easy as plunking a dime into the slot and pressing the start button. That is why I, an expert in new games, am here.

When the subject of hot new games comes about, only one need come to my mind. Not surprisingly, that exemplary game is, without a doubt, Pong. All the elements are in harmony in this awe-striking masterpiece. Cutting edge technology is used to create a whole new world of fantasy and suspense-- in which you control your own destiny...

Anyone with a good nose for games is destined to play Pong.

FRESHMEN RATE THE SWIRLIES

By: A lowly freshman

Greetings, swirlers and swirlees alike, as I rate a swirly. This being my first actual review, I will review my first swirly. Ah yes, I'll never forget my first escorted trip to the toilet. It wasn't really special, but, it being my first time, I was scared like the dickens! The swirler simply told me to shut up and hold my breath. His technique was slightly lacking, but the talent was definitely there. My entire head was soaked, and I received quite the mocking afterwards. All things considered, this was a decent if not extraordinary swirly. I'll even tack on half a point for it being my first time. This brings the total score up to 5.5. So, until next time, keep your mind in school and your head in the John. Thanks.

BUNNYVILLE, EASTERBUNNYLAND - This year, instead of the Easter Bunny delivering candy, he (she?/it?) will spread rabies to all the little children of the world. Yes, rabies. While making his deliveries, he was bitten by a rabid coon just before it was hit by a Jeep. Within hours, the Easter Bunny was viciously attacking the little boys and girls whom he had so recently been giving those yummy candies with the hard candy shell and the delectably soft, creamy inside. He was promptly shot.

Certain members of a certain school staff are planning a super-secret conspiracy to shut us down. Just today, one of them stopped me from delivering something to the editor.

They hold secret after-school meetings (cleverly disguised with the name "staff meeting"). Some of them aren't even teachers. I think they're willing to kill to suppress this story-- so watch your backs and remember: being a paranoid delusionary isn't all that bad. Neither is being a potato.*

This issue, we review:
<http://www.pepsi.com/>
<http://jupiter.orc.ca/~jaustin/penna/>
<http://www.scifi.com/mst3000/>

<http://www.pepsi.com/>

a cool page, if you have a lot of time on your hands. The page takes forever to load, and you need the shockwave plug-in for half the content. The anime thingy is pretty cool, and you need Quicktime for the commercials part. All in all this page isn't worth the wait to see it. Graphic design is pretty good, though. I like the background, and the images are put together just right

<http://jupiter.orc.ca/~jaustin/penna/>

This page is for those of you that like AD&D, it's an entire RPG based on dragons, this IRC SIM's page was once known as Limestone Weyr, until Anne McCaffrey shut down all DRP pages started after December. LW was one of the unlucky victims. The page is pretty good, graphically. Not too many graphics on the page, which takes down the wait to load the page, but the graphics that are there are very good, all the pages graphics were generated with Paint Shop Pro 3.12 (<http://www.jasc.com>) but the spinning graphic on the front page was generated with PSP and another program called *fill this in before printing*. I'd check it out.

<http://www.scifi.com/mst3000/>

The last revue for the day, the MST3K homepage is nothing short of awesome. The Sci-fi channel had plenty of work put into this one. The Hamdingers area is fun to look at, I like the "Sci-Fi saves Servo" picture, in which Some person out of the cameras view is holding those pad thingies where the doctor yells "CLEAR!" to Servos chest. There's also a pretty cool section called "Caption This!" where they post a new picture every few seconds from some TV show or Movie, and you get to make your own quote for it. The only problem with "Caption This!" is that you need to be a Dominion member to use it. The good thing about being a dominion member? you get notified whenever they have a special event on IRC or something, like MST3K the Home Game where even I got a quote in (If any of you saw it when it was on, a week before the new season started) and it was fun watching others quotes that didn't make it to the screen, I had one when that guy with the goat came down the mountain, but noooooo....

I'm Talkin' Out My Butt!

I reserve the right to give facts, twist the truth, and lie to you.

The exciting new sequel to Rusty Bed Springs is out. The long-awaited book Pee Pee Paradise is out. The author, I.P. Nightly, says, "I did some exciting field work. I got to see people with absolutely no bladder control in action in the secret underworld of the nursing home." Yes, this book takes you into the secret world of the nursing home and explains many unknown things about it, such as: what that smell really is!

The book also takes an in-depth look at how those so-called accidents really happen!

This has been Ben, talkin' directly from his butt. That is what that smell is.

CORPUSTLE'S COOKING COLUMN

Greetings to all of you chefs "in the making"! Cody Corpustle, here, ready to bring you yet another tasty dish that may contain fish! I'm also quite the poet!

With the recent heart-warming tale of how the Heaven's Gate "cult" was delivered to the promised land by comet All Hail The Mops, it reminded me of my good friend in Waco; Mr. David Koresh. For some reason, I haven't heard from him in a while. He was the one who inspired me to create today's recipe.

Cult-Cabobs

Mix in million dollar mansion or Texas warehouse thingy:

1 Charismatic Crazy Guy who thinks he's a divine prophet

39 or more flaky, gullible

yuppies with experience in castration

1 pretty comet or celestial body

1 SWAT Team (or, if cost is a factor, plastic bags will do)

1 impressive web site to draw in stupid people who want to join a club on the internet

Grill ingredients with media attention and place on a giant skewer. Enjoy!

Oh darn and double darn! I don't have the space to tell you about my new cooking cult!

Sasquatch TV Helper Thing Daytime Weekday TV Summary

11:00 Channel 3- The Dung and the Pestilence: A long running opera about people that didn't use enough soap after using the bathroom and the pestilence that follows them.

12:30 Channel 3- The Old and the Senile: Uh, I can't remember what this is. What was your name again, sonny?

1:00 Channel 3- As the World Turns into a Potato: Soap opera starring Ben, the notorious potato monkey who wants to create a world in his own image. This show is pretty screwed up.

4:00 Channel 3- The Opera Windsor Show: A singing talk-show at the Windsor Opera. One full hour of people singing about how their unmarried daughter's children are transvestite murderers who don't love their fathers because they can't make a commitment to stop dreaming about supermodels for the sake of their illegitimate son's fourth cousins who are obsessed with...

This Month is

SYMPATHY MONTH!!

And We're going to celebrate it by:

1.) CHECKING OUT BOOKS THAT HAVN'T SEEN THE "OUTSIDE" SINCE, OHHHHH, ABOUT '74. (LIKE UPHOLSTERING, LOCATED IN SECTION 648-726 ON THE TOP SHELF (CHECKED OUT LAST BY MR. KARBERG) ABOUT 6 BOOKS FROM THE LEFT)

2.) Don't pick on Ben (he's taken a beating enough in this issue)

3.) Make sure you take extra food in the hot lunch line for those lunchless people that are forced to beg

4.) Make sure you don't screw around in classes (be nice to teachers for once, eh?)

5.) Pay your fines on time. that's ON TIME!!!

6.) DON'T TAKE THE ROLLING STONES MAGAZINE FROM THE LIBRARY.

7.) Don't give Mr. Nodolf anymore Gray Hairs (That Ice scraper may have a few uses left)

Thanks for helping us celebrate Sympathy Month!!!

Your Personal Guide to the Stars (Horoscope, stupid!)

FOR THE WEEK OF APRIL 27 MAY 3, 1997

By: Nailuj Relyt, certified astrologer, windshield cleaning street bum.

Nailuj notes that he was in a bad mood when he wrote this horoscope, and, therefore, so were the stars. Any predicted deaths of loved ones may be ignored this week.

Aries: These are times of great change and progress. You remember to change your underwear for the first time in three months. Now that's progress!

Taurus: The force that drives you on will run you over this week when you are hit by a tourist bus. Instead of calling an ambulance, they all get out and take pictures of you, and you die of a broken arm.

Gemini: Bedridden by a nasty case of diarrhea, you wallow in your sorrow until taking some Pepto-Bismol. This insults your stomach's ability to deal with indigestion. Insulted and still upset, your stomach leaves you for another man.

Cancer: Past experience deters you from touching the flame, but, having never "swallowed fire" you decide to eat your bunsen burner during a lab.

Leo: You will return from school one day this week to find a surprise family reunion in your home. Aunt Bertha (whom you didn't even know was your aunt) will pinch your cheeks off of your face. A cheek transplant from your butt goes haywire, and everyone calls you "Tallowface" for the rest of your life. (Sorry if that was too gross).

Virgo: Foolishly not trusting my horoscope, you ask the stars for advice by yourself and are clunked over the head by a meteorite. Serves you right!

Libra: Intrigued and seduced by the suggestive ad for Melba Toast in issue eight (see issue eight), you seek Melbaman, clad only in a fluorescent pink cape, to have a passionate love affair. You are sick.

Scorpio: Believing that your life is going nowhere, you will affix yourself to a business envelope and see the world for 32¢, although you will be dead.

Sagittarius: You will live out the rest of your life in a state of Deja Veux. Ha!

Aquarius: Inspired by the name of your constellation, you will make an aquarium of assorted tropical fish. When you notice the fish aren't swimming, you will realize only too late that you forgot to put in the water.

Pisces: Strained and oh so tired, you will finally give in to the urge to play a miniaturized version of water polo in the toilet. Good for you, stupid!

Capricorns will find themselves in a state of ommscience this week, and therefore need no horoscope.

Area Vampires Thank Blood Donors

"This Is a Fine Appetizer Before We Come to Kill You All," Says Vampire.

CAMBRIDGE VICINITY, WI - Vampires all around the Dane and Jefferson County border were driven batty with the apparent success of the Red Cross blood drive at CHS this past Tuesday, April 24. Unlike most of us, vampires cannot simply walk into Cub Foods to get samples of meals, as the sight of blood would revolt many customers. Fortunately for local vampires, students of CHS were tricked by the vampire run Red Cross into thinking that they were saving human lives with their blood donations. President of the Cambridge Vampire Club (CVC), Count Johnson explained, "They are actually saving lives-- vampire lives. The elderly vampires of our community are unable hunt any longer, as their fangs have become soft and dull while they have acquired arthritis in their wings. Thus, to prolong their lives, it is necessary to have a blood supplement provided."

In addition, thanks to the donations, vampires are aware of which potential victims are ripe for the picking and which ones are past their prime. "Once, I unknowingly attacked a local youth," Count Johnson continued, "not realizing that I would receive a nasty hangover because of all of the liquor in his blood. Now, I needn't go in 'blind as a bat' so to speak-- for I have sampled most all of Cambridge's blood, and I now know precisely who and (more importantly) who not to attack and suck all the blood out of. We are all very grateful to all those who have given their blood. It is quite a fine appetizer before we come to kill you all."

Students can expect the vampires to show their gratitude by sucking them dry within the next week or so, pending the hunger of the vampires.

"I want to see blood!"
-Andy Egge, after a track meet.

Africa Having Trouble With Rectal Turkey

In recent disgusting news, African officials are expressing their discontent over the apparent failure of the rectal turkey.

"The feathers can easily get caught," a very hungry and skinny Somalian told us, speaking from experience. Originally, to help with the hunger, several million seeds for Rectal Fish were to be sent, but many areas of Africa lacked the necessary water supply. An alternative had to be found.

Instead of a renewable food source, the many hungry of Africa have been given a painful, smelly mess.

The Deep Literature Experience

STONE EAGLE

Tired, failing worlds are now
Asleep inside my soul-I vow
To keep them safe as long as I can deeper than the sunset fly
But all of these are things I rendered in my eyes to be Remembered as nothing more than stone appearing statues to the naked eye.

Stopping now without a cause
I just escaped from Tiger's claws
And singing softly to myself
I placed the bottle on the shelf
That bottle holding all my stories
The music damning all my worries
To the darkest place that earthen men will ever tread.

Alone I am without a soul
Just someone who can lose control
And with that loss I feel the pain
Of Nature's melting, purple rain
That falls into my eyes a yearning
Stinging, urging, painful burning
That falls into my eyes-the place that I have lost my soul.

Beguiled by something close and quiet,
I let the melting rain of violet
Come upon me and encase me
In a bubble, lonely be
As my friend must once have said:
I think that I Would rather die
Than be alone inside this empty head.
