Village Bakery Robbed Again!

Bakery Theft No Longer Under Investigation

Suspect, Laurel Cutcher, in Police Custody

This very cool man is not the perpetrator- but, in fact, the hero. Known by locals as Handyman Hubert, he wields the lethal wrench used to clunk Cutcher over the head.

CAMBRIDGE, WI - After baffling Cambridge police for over a week, the criminal mastermind who robbed the bakery returned for a second looting. The perpetrator has been identified as CHS student, Laurel Cutcher, long suspected (with her extensive criminal record) but never arrested for the original crime in which about $4,000 was reportedly stolen. In her second crime, Laurel made off with the slightly lesser amount of $2.78.

When asked the reason for the return crime, Cutcher responded, "Well, I thought I might have left some change in the cash register last time, and I wanted to finish the job." Unsatisfied, we pryed further and learned that her chief motive for returning was a small sign posted next to the door which read, "Thank you. Please come again." Laurel expanded on the thought, "Upon reading that sly ploy, I'd been burning inside to go back and rob them again. It was just too tempting to resist."

Fortunately, this time someone was present during the robbery. Handyman Hubert had been innocently tightening the sewer pipes when he heard "somebody raisin' a ruckus upstairs". "So," he said, "I went up there in a hurry and used my trusty lugwrench here to give the naughty little lady one h of a clunkin'." Hailed by the police as a hero, Hubert was rewarded with $10 and one of those jelly-filled donuts with the creamy white frosting and the little candy sprinkles on top.

Mat Hughson Dies of Computer Virus

CAMBRIDGE, WI - Fellow business machines statewide mourned the death of Mat Hughson, yesterday. His owners commented, "If only we'd given him more RAM- er um love, maybe he could've pulled through."

The coroner's autopsy revealed that his motherboard was severely corrupted, and his modem port was made inaccessible by an object known as "pants". A close friend (user) of Hughson told us, with tears in his eyes, "Sometimes he'd freeze up, and I'd have to reboot, but I never thought it would lead to this. Eventually everything just went haywire. He couldn't read disks, his blazingly fast 12x CD ROM drive kept [literally] eating my CD's, but nothing ever went wrong with his sound blasters." This did not come as a surprise.

IMC Bans Communication, Hogs Knowledge to Self

CAMBRIDGE, WI - The CHS library, long known as a safe haven for conversing during a study hall period, has officially banned all communication to prevent any knowledge from being dispersed or shared. "This is to be a quiet study area," a brave student informed us just before being hauled off to the furnace room by an honorary librarian (hired Mafia goon).

Monkeys Hired By CHS to Correct Semester Exams

CAMBRIDGE, WI - If you notice that your normally high semester exam grades are down this year, fear not, for we have uncovered a great conspiracy by the evil teachers of our school. Teachers, supposedly having insufficient time to grade exams during the week, have raided the zoo and hired approximately 15 monkeys to correct for them. To change your grade contact

TACO JUANS MOVIE REVIEW

Michael

This movie was seen same day as Jingle all the way. Michael is a movie about angel named Michael.

This movie starts out where Michael writes a letter to a newspaper company, he says it is from an old women he is staying at her motel. The newspaper people send three people to see if it is fake or real. They go long time on the road and find out that he's a true angel. The old women later dies making breakfast for the news people. The news people than go and take Michael (John Travolta) to Chicago to their newspaper to take a picture of this real angel. They stop at many places on the way such as the biggest ball of twine, and the biggest frying pan.

This is half of this awesome and very funny movie go to the movies now and See the rest of Michael for yourself.

I give this movie a 9 out of 10!

Read my stuff again next issue.

T-Rex Announces Plan to Eat Neighborhood Dog:
Dog wags tail Frantically

Today in South Africa, a revolution broke out... As usual. Which brings me to the point of the story, today. In mid America, a Tyranosaurus Rex statue in Chicago's Field Museum, when an Alaskan Husky urinated on the statues leg. The dog's owner, Jake Polarny, claimed that it was some other guy's dog, "Mooch just went outside on the doorman, he couldn't have had enough in him to pee on the T-Rex."

After stomping around the museum, and drying off his leg, the T-Rex threatened the dog with an ear shattering roar. The dog immediately opened his mouth and started wagging his tail. The T-Rex seemed threatened by this for soon after the floor was covered in feces, although the dog was nowhere to be seen, and the mound of dung seemed to be whimpering.

Assuming that the dog had run off, all observers resumed thier tours of the museum. Suddenly the dog emerged from the brown, smelly pile in the middle of the floor, and his owner scolded him for playing in the dirty feces. The T-Rex then lunged at the dog, bit between the dog's legs, and began tearing the limb from limb.

The dogs owner sued the Museum for a total sum of $9.3 trillion. Due to unknown circumstances, no judge in America took the case, so it will be viewed on The people's Court, February 29 at 13:00 PM EST, on TBS.

Irony Report

Driver's Ed. Teacher Loses License

Mr. Nodolf has lost his driver's ed. and also his driver's license. He was reported to have hi~~s~~ some driving instructor with his ice scraper. Mat Hughson, who was in the middle of getting his hours in for driver's ed. just doesn't know what he'll do.

After Mr. Nodolf lost his license, he was reported to have tried to end it all with a big "bangola" by using a car to run into a 1,000 lb. cow. The cow died, and the owner of the cow is suing Mr. Nodolf for $1,000 for all that the cow was worth.

Later the same night, he also got a drunk driving ticket, and he was thrown in jail. His sentence was to buy everyone an ice scraper and let everyone hit him once with it.

Packers Decide Not to Go to Super Bowl

"It's no big deal," Green Bay QB, Brett Favre

GREEN BAY, WI - The general consensus amongst the Green Bay Packers football organization is that they will opt not to play in Super Bowl XXXI, citing schedule conflicts as the primary reason. "I have a dentist appointment scheduled that day, so I don't think I'll make it," Coach Mike Holmgren told us.

"It's no big deal," said QB Brett Favre. "I mean, they have one of these things every year don't they?"

Among other previous commitments, TE Mark Chmura wished to spend more quality time with his family, WR Antonio Freeman had some bills he needed to get paid, RB Edgar Bennett had volunteered for community service, Reggie White wanted to go to church in Wisconsin rather than Louisiana, and WR Andre Rison was nowhere to be found - supposedly kidnapped last time he jumped into the stands.

The coaching staff commented, "It's only what we've been working for all year. Sure we've earned it, but that doesn't mean that we're going to play. Other teams - bad ones - they have to work twice as hard as we do to get a win - shouldn't they be playing in this so-called "Stupendous Bowl" instead of us?"

Fans of the Packers, who are considered to be the greatest fans in the world, told us, "Hey, we're great fans - but are we really the best? I hear Cubs fans are pretty loyal. Heck, even the Cowboys have their loyal followers."

Another said, "I live for the Packers, and it's great that they made it to the Super Bowl, but I'm really glad they decided not to play. Does it really matter so much to play in the greatest sport spectacle in the world?"

As there always are, some players expressed their wishes that the team would play, noting that, "This is what it's all about!" and "We're #1... so let's prove it!". Upon hearing those remarks, Favre stepped in and told them not to give in to their greed. All said and done, the team voted unanimously not to play.

Your Personal Guide to the Stars

FOR THE WEEK OF: JANUARY 23-30

By: Nailuj Relyt, certified astrologer, chief mopper of McDonald's Restaurant

Nailuj notes that anyone who reads horoscopes is a pathetic low-life who must hold someone's hand every step that they take. Nailuj will not hold your hand.

Aries: Your attempt to let your incident with the disc sander go unnoticed fails miserably when you are caught red-handed (quite literally).

Taurus: Still writhing from your previous encounter with the wild man from Borneo, you burn a side-show tent, causing a world-wide shortage of freaks.

Gemini: Your final exam grades inspire you to become a shoemaker's apprentice in the slums of England.

Cancer: O woe art thou, ye unfortunate soul, for thou shalt falleth backeth in timeth and windeth thyself adding "th" to thine words.

Leo: A bright light beckons you forth. It is the sun- and after you suffocate in space going towards it, you will disintegrate in its heat.

Virgo: While frantically searching for some form of Packers memorabilia so that you may look cool, you uncover a hole that tunnels through the earth and (you suspect) to China. Like your forefathers, you make the mistake of going into the hole, realizing only too late that you have gotten your foot stuck in the toilet.

Libra: Channeling your anger into something constructive, you build the world's tallest tower of tofu. Why the heck did you do that?

Scorpio: Your boycott of pasteurized milk comes to an end when you learn that you must drink it to get a milk mustache.

Sagittarius: Though hindered by a broken back, you will escape your near-tragic car accident unharmed.

Aquarius: Knowing the time draws near when the men shall be separated from the boys, you cut yourself in half to again attain the best of both worlds.

Pisces: Your life-long dream of becoming the next scourge of the seven seas comes crashing down when you learn that the sea is now called an ocean (that and the fact that having a hook instead of a hand makes it a real chore to pick your nose).

Capricorns' future is so bright that Nailuj was blinded by the light and therefore unable to see the stars.

Up With Censorship!

All of you young whipper-snappers are off your rockers! Always out on the town a hootin-and a hollerin' and the like. If I ever get my strength back, my trusty cane and I will see to it that you never show your tallow-faced mugs in my cottage again. What's more, your "music" irritates my hernia and gives me gas. In my day, youngsters listened to the legendary pitter-pat of Gene Krupa, the harmonizing champagne style of Laurence Welk, and from time to time I'd bring out the old Sousaphone and raise some shennanigans in the town square. Now you've got this information wonder-beltline to talk to people from half way 'round the gee darn world. You upstarts have probably never even used the Pony Express. All this communication must be put to an end- censor it all, I say! Let none be heard be heard by you insolent scallawags lest you shine my dentures with corn oil. Now off with you all! It's time for my nap.

CORPUSTLE'S COOKING CORNER

Greetings! Cody Corpustle, here, and I just can't wait for the big game! Needless to say, bad snacks spell doom for Super Bowl parties, so don't risk rejection- try this selection! Isn't that a clever rhyme? Anyway, this simple recipe should keep your guests chewing for a long time...

Packer Snax

Purchase bulk meat from your local slaughterhouse. Mix in cement truck:
4 tons ground chuck
350,000 (count) croutons
1 pinch of salt
1 Green Bay Packer
(Offensive linemen have more flavor)

Should the Packer make trouble or struggle, put a super bowl ring in a giant blender, and, when he jumps in after it, the frappe should make quick work of him. Pour contents in truck

Remember: tell your guests the ingredients only after they have finished eating and only if the Packers win.

Sunday TV Summary [continued from last issue]

12:00 Channel 15: Baywatch Knights- the lesser known cousin of Baywatch, this show can't even attract perverts because the stars are all clad in full shining armor. The only redeeming qualities are when the lifeguards joust with seaweed vines.

7:00 PM Channel 27: Blowice and Fart... The P.U. Adventures of Pooperman- yet another of the primetime show that makes full use of the human body's ability to produce flatulence.

7:30 PM Channel 47: Archduke of the Plateau- Fox's latest attempt to keep some viewers after the Simpson's is over dwells heavily on taking advantage of the stupid people deep in the heart of Texas fails miserably because there is not a character named Beevis nor Butthead anywhere to be seen in this pathetic "comedy".

9:00 PM Channel 47: The Pie Factory- Fox's sci-fi look at the often overlooked pie factory. Hosted by Dan Aykroyd's evil twin

VIDEO GAME REVIEW

Hello this is Jon Myers with your video game review.

I have not played any new games for any of the 3-top systems, but I'll just give you a low down on how far I'm in, in all three of my Nintendo 64 games: Super Mario 64, Pilotwings, and Star Wars Shadows of the Empire.

SUPER MARIO 64

I have not yet beat this really awesome game yet, but I have tried many times. The last Bowser is really hard to beat. But once I get 120 stars, I'll kill that rainbow Bowser.

PILOTWINGS 64

I can use Birdman in 3 out of 4 islands, they are: Crescent island, Holiday island, and Ever-Frost island. I can also do other totally awesome extra games such as 2 of 3 which are: Cannonball and Sky diving. I almost got the game beat, but the pilot tests are really, really hard.

STAR WARS SHADOWS OF THE EMPIRE

I'm at level 5 out of 10 in this game. In the fifth level you take Dash Rendar and find and kill Boba Fett, to save Jabba the Hut. Boba Fett is one of the worst Bounty hunters around. I have not got to him yet. I have got to one of them two legged machines, but haven't got to Boba Fett yett.

Rating: 5

I can only imagine your great anticipation to find out what hot new game I will review in this issue- so I won't waste any space that could be used to praise the greatest game that there ever was and ever will be! Needless to say, that game is Pong. Day and night I dream of Pong, wishing that some day I could be the white bar that sends the dot flying across the screen with its brute strength and cunning agility. That, my friend, is ultimate power! Aspiring dictators, take note: to gain dominion, study the bar from Pong. It holds the key to true authority and leadership.

Flawless in every way

And now, a guiding light to the troubled lives of America's youth
Ask Mr. Smily Face :-).

Dear Mr. Smily Face: I fear the apocalypse is nearly upon us. Soon we shall all face ultimate peril, and we shall learn the true meaning of pain and suffering. We shall all meet our fiery deaths in an infernal cesspool of flaming sewage, which will engulf our writhing bodies with a burning hand of doom. None can escape, for when the hand of doom reaches down our throats and pulls out our still-beating hearts, the astonished look of panic shall be forever engraved upon every face which must behold such a morbid spectacle. Even you, Mr. Smily Face, are not safe from the terror that will be unleashed upon us. Oh no, especially not you- for the hand of doom will take great sadistic pleasure in painstakingly forcing that gleaming smile of yours down to a scornful frown. Our day is coming.
Sincerely: Apocalyptic in Annapolis

Dear Apocalyptic: You have a very special way of thinking. I, myself, prefer to think about flowers and fresh-baked blueberry muffins, but if infernal proclamations of doom are your forte, who am I to say that muffins are more enjoyable than having your heart gouged out? That brings me to my point that everyone is special- and they are. Glad I could help.
Sincerely, Mr. Smily Face :-)

Mr. Smily Face urges you to remember that we all are special in our own special ways, and we all are special each and every day.
